Royal Reception.

Nearly all the base ball fans turned out Sunday night to meet the base ball club when they came on the 9:25 C. & O. train from their training grounds at Nashville, Tenn. The demonstration accorded them goes to prove that base ball is at fever heat and if this team is not a pennant winner, it will not be the fault of the fans.

It was known by the management that the team would arrive Sunday night, but the matter was to have been a secret. The news leaked out Sunday morning. It seemed that some overjoyed member of the club who was on the inside had whispered it to one of his best friends who was not on the inside and he told it to one of his best friends with the result that before three o'clock in the afternoon every man, woman and child was next, which resulted in a large attendance.

Donates His Carriages.

Mr. Clyde Gaines, the local liveryman, who is a base ball fan, donated to the management, free of charge, three of his finest carriages to take the team from the depot to their boarding house. Henry Phillips would not let the team be taken direct from the depot to their boarding house. He wanted to show them his store and accordingly the men were unloaded at his store and a general shaking went on until the players vomited out from their long trip, had to ask to be taken home.

Almost All New.

The team is almost entirely a new one, and not many of the fans are acquainted with them. They are a sprightly looking bunch, and if looks go very far, they surely will be the ones to capture the pennant. They are all sunburned and show that they have been at practise. One had his thumb tied up, which he got hurt in a practise game. With the exception of Fred Toney, who pitched here last year, the team is rather a small one in stature but each seems to be active and on the alert all the time.

With these twelve men already here four to arrive Monday the list of arrivals is about completed, but will not be until the latter part of the week when one from Detroit, Mich., and one from Richmond, Va., arrives.

Manager Horn will take his men out each day this week and give them a working out. The first exhibition game will be played Friday with the K. W. C. crack team.

The team visited Garner Park in a body Monday morning and inspected the grounds but did not indulge in any stunts. In the afternoon, light practice was indulged in. Serious work will begin Monday.

Baseball Notes.

Henry Phillips was all smiles Monday and Sunday night. He was shaking hands with the players and in meeting the players his conversation ran like this: "Why, I'm so glad to see you. You are the fellow that sent me so many telegrams; you are the one that I had to write so many letters to; you are the one that wrote me such a long letter, etc." Henry nevertheless went to church before the train arrived.

J. Q. Stewart was there to. He didn't ride on the carriage because Woodson Moss got there first.

Mr. W. R. Thomas was fussing because some one called him at his residence to come down and see the team in, though he was down five minutes after he was called.

Mr. E. F. Joust never takes much evening for Louisville on a two-days' interest in base ball, but he was there business trip.

THREE MEMBERS OF FINANCE COMMITTEE ACTIVE IN FRAMING SENATE TARIFF BILL

While the lower house of congress has been debating the schedules for the Payne tariff bill the senate finance committee has been busily at work framing a similar measure to be presented to the senate when the house has finally passed on the Payne bill. Senators Aldrich of Rhode Island, Hale of Maine and Lodge of Massachusetts are most active in the work and will bear the brunt of the fight on the Republican side of the senate when the tariff comes up for debate.

Kentucky men and women filled nearly all the chairs in the courtroom, and when Young arose to address the jury the defendant craned his neck with the crowd to listen to the argument of the spell-binder from the homeland.

Young, who has magnetic manners, disclaimed that he was either distinguished or an orator in Kentucky, telling the jury that he was only a country practitioner with a clientele that was almost confined to the county in which he lived.

The jury appeared to be captivated by the confidence of Young as readily as the Kentuckians in the courtroom chairs. Keeping his voice low and plaintive, Young sketched an impressive picture of the difficulty of a young Kentuckian of 20 to restrain himself in the face of insult offered by a negro. As he elaborated his argument Young laid emphasis on the racial prejudices of the South.

"This young son of Kentucky struck that negro to save his own life," declared Young. "It was an elementary act of self-defense. After being beaten into insensibility once by this black assailant, it was perfectly natural that Gardner, seeing Cardosa coming after him with an uplifted hammer, would protect himself even if he had to slay. There is not a contemptible snake that crawls that is not provided with a weapon of self-defense. This was nothing but self-defense, and we shall stand on that plea."

EASTER IS CELEBRATED

COMMENCEMENT AT THE COLLEGE

Kentucky Wesleyan Has Prepared Its Program For the May Exercises.

The festival of Easter was celebrated at Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Archdeacon Wentworth read the services and preached the Easter sermon. The impressive and beautiful ritual appointed for the day was admirably rendered by the minister and the choir. The sermon set forth the historic and divine revelation of God's promises and assurances of eternal life. The wonderful story of the death and resurrection was graphically told and solemnly illustrated by the music.

Following is the program rendered by the choir, assisted by Miss Hazel Cornell, "violinist." Mrs. F. B. Wentworth, organist.

Vocal, "Christ our Passover," Chapple, "Te Deum," Stephens, "Jubilate," Crammer hymn, "Hark! Ten Thousand Harps and Voices," Kyrie, Elvey.

Glori Tibi, Alleluia, Recessional, St. George's Winsor hymn.

The altar and choir were exquisitely decorated with potted plants and cut flowers.

St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

St. Joseph's Catholic church celebrated the High Festival of Easter at the 10 o'clock service by the rendition of a solemn festal mass, Father Ryan officially as celebrant. The musical portion of the service was rendered by the choir in a dignified and artistic manner.

Other Churches.

Easter services were also held at the Methodist church. The Rev. Chandler preached an excellent Easter sermon and the choir under the direction of Miss Susan Buckner rendered an appropriate and delightful musical service.

The sermon by Rev. Mr. Cumming and music at the Presbyterian church were devoted to the Easter season and were both enjoyed by a large congregation.

While no regular Easter services at the Christian church.

CASTRO STRIKES FROM SHOULDER
Bitterly Denounces Action of French Government—Says Life is Imperiled.

Fort de France, Martinique, April 12.—Prior to being taken aboard the steamer Versailles for deportation to France, ex-President Castro prepared a written protest against the action of the French government, which has been submitted to the authorities here. It reads as follows:

"I hereby protest against the action of the French authorities of Martinique in having me put by force on board an outgoing vessel. First, because I was ill at the time and because the act imperiled my life; second, because I have committed no offense against the government of France and the authorities of Martinique during the time that I was permitted to remain on that island; and, finally, because the decree of expulsion which orders my deportation out of French territory compels me to take passage aboard a vessel which will again land me on French territory."

"Moreover, these considerations aside, the case constitutes a breach of international law and a denial of the rights of individuals. That such a thing should have come to pass in the land which saw the birth of Josephine, and from which came the inspiration and presage of liberty, and at the hands of a people who shed their blood by torrents hardly a century ago

WHAT ABOUT THE DUST?

The Council should do something at once to relieve us of the dust nuisance. We have seen many of our merchants who are complaining bitterly over the delay in oiling the streets. They are ready to pay their part and to do their part but for some cause the Council has failed to provide the oil. Hundreds of dollars of merchandise is being destroyed by the dust, prospective buyers cannot go on the streets and business is seriously injured.

We hope the Council will act immediately and have the oil ordered at once and get to work on reducing the dust.

We would suggest that until the oil comes, the fire department be instructed to, each morning, sprinkle the business streets. This could be easily done by attaching the fire hose to the hydrants and would not take a great amount of time, but would be a great benefit to our merchants and shoppers.

THE SOUTH POLE.

The near approach to the South Pole by Lieutenant Shackleton has roused new interest in the attempts of the various nations of the world to reach one or the other of the poles. Some of the scientific benefits and results of the voyages which so many think of as fruitless, may be noted:

One fact which is now brought out more distinctly than hitherto is that the South magnetic pole, like the North magnetic pole, is shifting its position. Amundsen's observations showed that the latter was not where Ross located it more than half a century ago. The former has not only been moving in a similar fashion, but surveys made by members of Lieutenant Shackleton's party indicate that at present its motion is not eastward, as has been supposed, but northward. The discovery is of importance to the navigator, and will undoubtedly be utilized by those experts who from time to time revise magnetic charts for ship captains. Without such information the most careful steering by compass may possibly lead to shipwreck. Obviously, too, new observations must be made every few years, to learn what changes in the deviation of the magnetic needle occur in the intervening periods.

Whether the region surrounding the South geographical pole is a vast archipelago, resembling that which lies along the Arctic front of North America, or is a continent, has hitherto been largely a matter of speculation. These second theory, though not fully established, is rendered far more credible than ever before by Lieutenant

Shackleton's wonderful exploit. His ability to get within a hundred geographical miles of the pole without encountering a strait is extremely suggestive. Fuller evidence, obtained by approaching the same goal from other directions, is needed to complete the demonstration, but projects for exploration for that purpose will receive great encouragement from his performance.

Two American ideas have proved exceedingly helpful to the daring British naval officer who planted the Union Jack in south latitude 82° 23'. One is Evelyn Baldwin's substitution of Siberian ponies for dogs in drawing sledges. The other is Commander Peary's old system of establishing depots of provisions along a possible line of retreat. Both may be expected to prove equally serviceable to other Antarctic explorers. Lieutenant Shackleton's success will undoubtedly stimulate a desire to complete the work so well begun by him.

The coal beds found within five degrees of the South Pole can hardly possess commercial value, but their existence raises an interesting question concerning the changes of climate which Antarctica has undergone since they were laid down. Such deposits in Europe and the United States have been regarded as the product of a vegetable growth of tropical luxuriance, and it is supposed that they were formed at a period of the earth's history when the globe was hotter than it is now. If such conditions once existed close to the South Pole, there must have been a greater change of temperature there than has occurred in the temperate zones. An inconsistency for geologists and astronomers to explain is thus suggested.

WILLIAM BOOTH.

Forty-four years ago, on the night of July 5, 1865, those passing in the heart of the Whitechapel district London, noticed an old tent pitched in a waste place to which the outskirts of the city were finding their way. Inside the tent was a man gaunt, erect, with the face of a Hebrew prophet, speaking with strange earnestness and power to his motley congregation.

Night after night the service continued and then the tent was moved to Mile End Waste.

The next move was to an abandoned old wool warehouse, and at each move what was then called a mission grew and began to attract general attention. Then branch missions were established, and at Christmas time 1877, the new organization, of which William and Catherine Booth were the head, took the name of the Salvation Army.

Saturday William Booth was eighty and the army he founded has spread to fifty-four countries and colonies and its organ is printed in twenty-eight languages. That army now has 8,358 posts and 16,199 officers. It has 20,808 musicians in its bands. And like the original embryo army on Mile End Waste, every post holds its nightly meetings, and these, like the martial airs of England, may be said to circulate the globe.

The Salvation Army and its leader in its earlier years had to withstand ridicule and sometimes active opposition; now its aims and objects are better understood and appreciated and while some of its methods and some also of its workers may yet be criticized, the general good the Salvation Army has accomplished, especially among a class before practically left unchurched, does not permit of challenge.

And now, standing on the summit of four-score, Gen. Booth, still full of enthusiasm and energy, is projecting another great departure. He and his army have set out to build a University of Humanity, with branches in New York and Chicago and headquarters in London. The formal launching of the effort to raise the millions necessary to the building of this university was begun Saturday in New York under the auspices of Commander Evangeline Booth in honor of the eightieth birthday of her father. The progress of this new enterprise will be watched with interest the world over.

NIAGARA IS MUTE

Great Falls Run Dry For Second Time In History.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 12.—The voice of Niagara is mute for the second time in the memory of man. The first time was late in February when, following a severe northerly blow, the falls ran dry. Now, following a severe southwest, the river is frozen solid from bank to bank.

Unprecedented weather has brought about unprecedented conditions. On Wednesday of last week the worst gale of the season and the most violent in the history of the weather bureau for April was recorded, and following the lake and the channel of the Niagara, left ruin in its wake. The solid ice fields of Lake Erie were churned from end to end and piled in a huge conglomerate mass at the lower end of the lake.

Unable to escape by its natural channels, the level of the river rose by leaps and bounds. The highest flood level recorded from previous years is 28 feet above the normal. Friday night the river was 40 feet above normal. Water poured over the window sills of the power house of the Ontario Power company and flooded the machines. The tracks of the Great Gorge route were covered from the lower steel arch bridge to Lewiston. Conservative estimates place the damage at $1,000,000.

Emperor Knights Stolypin.

St. Petersburg, April 12.—On the occasion of the conventional Easter honors, the emperor has issued a rescript setting forth his high appreciation of the patriotic labors of Premier Stolypin and conferring upon him knighthood of the Order of the White Eagle.

PACKERS MUST NOT OVERVALUE BEEF

Wickersham Issues Order After Ellis Makes Report.

Washington, April 12.—The practice of overvaluing dressed beef transported and of using such overvaluation as a basis for claims against railroad companies when the beef is injured or destroyed in transit, must be stopped at once, according to a resolution reached by Attorney General Wickersham as the result of an investigation made because of complaints against one of the large beef packing companies of Chicago. These complaints alleged that the company had placed a fictitious value on dressed beef claimed to have been injured or destroyed in transit.

The attorney general has informed the company that it must stop this practice, and has suggested to the Interstate commerce commission that it issue an order prescribing the character of the investigation to be made by railroads of all claims for damage or loss of property during transportation.

The attorney general's disposition of this case is the result of a recent visit to Chicago by his assistant, Wade H. Ellis.

STEAL LOCOMOTIVE

Thieves Abandon Engine When Steam Gives Out After Ten-Mile Run.

Train Kills Three Girls.

Dubuque, Ia., April 12.—The Illinois Central "flyer" struck and instantly killed Anna, Mabel and Ruby, aged 7, 8 and 14 respectively, daughters of Fred Foldorf. The girls were walking on the track toward the approaching train, but on account of a high wind they had their heads down and did not see the train.

MARK OF GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

To Take a Lively Interest in Your Home Town.

The citizenship of the United States depends on three things, said H. O. Hadley in an address given at the Hudson farmers' institute of Springfield, Mass.—namely, the civilization of immigrants from foreign countries, the education of their children and the education of the old American stock back in the country.

It seems to me that the old American stock away from the large cities and towns is not encouraging and cultivating educational facilities in the way they should. A short time ago I gathered some data on this subject, and I was surprised to find that only one out of thirteen country boys and girls who graduated from the graded schools ever went to the high school.

The grange is itself teaching its members the principles of good citizenship. The first duty of a good citizen is in supporting liberally the church and the gospel in his own town, even if he is not affiliated with that church. Denominational lines are fast breaking down, as they are all different paths to the same great end.

The second duty is paying the school tax and taking a strong interest in the education of the young people by visiting the school and seeing what is being done. Do not send your children to school and not inquire what they are accomplishing from one year to the other.

The third duty is interest in good roads. One mark of good citizenship is to build good highways, because it is over them that we go to mill and to meet. Elect a man for road builder who is familiar with the work of the office, irrespective of what party he belongs to, and keep him in office.

The fourth and last duty is the loyal support of your country, your state, your county and your own home. The interest in your home town or village comes in. Take an active part in affairs of the town, and do not run down your calling as farmers.

TAX ON BILLBOARDS.

Plan to Solve Problem of Objectionable Outdoor Advertising.

The fight against the unsightly billboards which has been in progress throughout the United States for several years has resulted in the attempt being made to pass a law in the Massachusetts legislature which will provide for the posting of bills under certain conditions.

The bill provides that the highway commission pass first on the billboard and then that a tax be paid of 10 cents a square foot for the privilege of displaying it.

Agents would be established all over the state to issue the licenses. Every billboard could be tagged in a simple manner to show that the license had been obtained.

This would not affect signs posted for seven days or under and would not include legal notices and notices of approaching meetings, but would refer to permanent signs, such as advertising signs in general. Such a license should be obtained shortly before the new year it would have thirty days to run before the next year's license would be required.

Planting School Grounds.

Public planting, especially in small centers of population, is often carried out in the same hasty, misguided manner as are too many marriages. We plant in haste only to repent at leisure. While wholesale enthusiasm is needed, do not allow it to dictate rushing to the school grounds and planting a few trees. We often fall by not making our several efforts continuous after the first feverish wave, but we should thoroughly organize when it is seen that a sufficient number will respond, says the Los Angeles Times.

After organization is effected a proper plan should be secured before anything is done more than to stir the soil. All work must be well ordered, but enthusiasm must not be allowed to wane, because every one in the district is needed to stand behind this meritorious move. Parents and pupils must all be back for the work and not leave too much to the teacher. The latter should not be expected to evidence a similar amount of interest, for the tenure of office of the average teacher is generally short, and the work must continue for years if the best results are accomplished. Some well qualified should have charge of and oversee all work, though the attending pupils should be interested and allowed to participate in so far as is practicable.

Plan For Artistic Tree Planting.

Before a tree or shrub is placed in its permanent location an outline map of the area to be treated should be made. This map should locate all existing structures, indicate the direction in which most pleasing outlooks are to be had and also the contour of the ground to be beautified. The aim should be to hide by means of trees and shrubbery all objectionable buildings or portions of the place and also to shut from view all unsightly objects maintained by neighbors, to locate the trees and shrubs so as to allow an uninterrupted line of vision where the outlook is pleasing and to so locate the plantings on large estates as to afford the greatest protection from winds and undesirable surroundings consistent with good landscape effect.

SOCIETY

Oh, simplify the spelling
All you want to, if you will,
But just the same it's certain
That a bil is still a bil.

It isn't any matter
How you spell it, you will find
That rent is rent, and landlords
Knock you when you get behind

The butcher and the baker
And the doctor and the lot
Don't care about the spelling
If they get what you have got.

The reformers may be busy
At reform until they're gray,
The world will not be different
If they spell it any way.

Oh, simplify the spelling,
Till you've got the perfect spell,
But Heaven will be Heaven
And Hell be no less Hell.

The Lenten season has come and gone, and now preparations are being made for many entertainments.

Little Colonel Readers.

The Little Colonel Readers had their regular meeting with Miss Emma Thomson, on Saturday afternoon at her home on South Main street. The usual program was laid aside and an Easter entertainment was given. A large basket and a number of eggs were hidden, and to the one finding the first egg and placing it in the basket a prize was awarded. Miss Louise Haggard was the winner. To the one who was longest in finding an egg for the basket a consolation prize was given. This was won by Miss Ada Lee Boone. Games were indulged in until a late hour, after which a delightful lunch was served.

Those present were: Misses Frances Pendleton, Julia Gaitskill, Little Spencer, Emma Thom, on, Louise Haggard, Hel-Ford, Ada Lee Boone and Ida Walden.

Miss Elizabeth Stewart had the Cooking Club meet with her at her home on South Maple street, on Saturday afternoon. Games were indulged in until a late hour, when a delicious lunch was served in buffet style.

Miss Stewart's guests were: Misses Marie and Gertrude Bloomfield, Virginia Baldwin, Mary Frances Ogden Dorothy Porter, Ofa Gaines Allen, Kathleen Earp, Mayne Scrivener, Catherine Hughes, Rosalind Stevenson, Fannie Combs Scott and Elizabeth Beckner.

Mrs. Eila Rounsvall will entertain at Bridge, Tuesday.

Taylor's new confectionary store opened Saturday. A large crowd was present the entire day. It is one of the prettiest and most up-to-date stores in the city, and we have every reason to be proud of it.

The Brown-Proctoria Hotel was open Sunday, both at the mid-day meal and in the evening. The meal was delightful. Mr. Moss is to be congratulated upon the preparation and service of such meals.

Among the dinner parties were:

Dr. Howard Lyon and Miss Alice Porter, Mr. Edwin Smith and Miss Florence Sympson, Mr. Austin Reeves and Miss Margaret McKinley.

Dr. Ernest Cole and Miss Jane Gaitskill, Mr. Scott Judy and Miss Edna Gaitskill, Mr. Mark McClure and Miss Evelyn Price.

Mr. Morgan Sparks and Miss Lucile Bell, Mr. Duncan Bell and Miss Sallie Marrs Sparks, Mr. Roy Laud, all of Nihcolasville, and Miss Anna Stoner Rash.

Stag Party.

"Bunhaven," the elegant country home of Mr. James Pickrell, was again the scene of a most delightful entertainment on Thursday evening, when Mr. William P. French entertained twelve of his friends with a seven course stag dinner. The lower part of this beautiful home had the additional beauty of palms and ferns.

The dining room was especially attractive. In the center of the table, was flat cut glass bowl containing huge pink and white hyacinths, and silver and cut glass bowls filled with pink and white mints. The silver candles shed a mellow radiance over all. On the sideboard was a Sheffield tray and tea service, the old family plate and the cabinet of sparkling cut glass.

SENATE HAS BIG TACK ON HANDSMust Make Up Large Deficit In Revenues.*FIRST ESTIMATES WRONG

House Amendments to Payne Bill Lopped Off $20,000,000 of Amount Expected to Be Raised—Increased Rates on Women's Hosiery and Gloves Stand Out as Prominent Changes Upward in the Dingley Tariff Schedules.

Washington, April 12.—The estimates of the revenue which the Payne tariff bill will produce for the government have been reduced nearly $20,000,000 through the amendments made to the measure before it was passed by the house, and the senate finance committee will have to provide means for making up this difference if the original estimates are to be met. The striking out of several countervailing duty clauses, on which no estimates were made, probably will lessen the bill's productiveness another $20,000,000.

The amendment taking off the 8-cent duty on tea subtracted $7,000,000 from the estimated revenues. The striking out of the countervailing duty on coffee and the maximum duty provision for a rate of 20 per cent ad valorem on coffee coming from countries which do not give the United States the benefit of their most favored nation clause, disposed of what probably would be $15,000,000 in duties.

Taking out the countervailing proviso for lumber and for petroleum, two amendments made by the house, means a lost opportunity to increase the revenues by several million dollars, it is estimated. By repealing the manufacturers' license tax for farmers desiring to sell the leaf tobacco which they raise, the house has withdrawn considerable revenue under the internal revenue law. A slight increase in revenue may be provided by the increased tax on Turkish filler tobacco, pineapples and barley and barley malt.

The senate finance committee materially reduced many of the schedules of the Dingley bill as it passed the house, but in order to increase the revenue producing power of the Payne bill that committee will have to take different action with regard to the latter measure. The 50 or more amendments, all of which were offered by the ways and means committee, have added a few more changes to the Payne bill as compared to the present tariff law.

The two increases over the Dingley rates that stand out most prominently in the Payne bill are those in the rates on women's and children's gloves and hosiery. Cocoa, which is now imported free of duty, has been made dutiable at the rate of 3 cents per pound.

The Payne bill contains many reductions from the Dingley rates of duty. The duties on lead ore and pig lead are materially reduced, while the lumber schedule is cut in half. The differential on refined sugar is reduced 5 cents per 100 pounds. Cottonseed oil and tallow are placed on the free list, as well as licorice paste, fence posts and kindling wood. Provisions for the free entry, under certain conditions, of bituminous coal, wood pulp and agricultural machinery have been incorporated. The duty on print paper, upon the recommendation of the house investigating committee, was considerably reduced. The most important changes made in the wool schedule were the reduction of 5 cents on shoddy and top waste, and change from an ad valorem to specific duty on tops, the general effect being a slight reduction. A concession to those who urged that works of art be placed on the free list was made by permitting the free entry of objects of art at least 20 years old.

The iron and steel schedules are distinguished through a general cutting in the duties. Iron ore is placed on the free list and material reductions are made in the rates on pig iron, scrap iron and steel bar iron, round iron, bloom, structural iron forgings, anchors, cotton ties, steel rails, tin plates, wire and numerous other articles.

One of the most important provisions of the bill is the Philippine free trade provision, which permits the free entry of every product of the islands except rice, and exempts from duty any articles imported from the United States into those islands. The amount of sugar which may be imported is limited to 300,000 tons annually.

BRITISH INHERITANCE TAXES.

Washington, April 12.—British inheritance taxes, drawn from a population of 44,000,000, yield $90,000,000 to $95,000,000 annually out of a total internal revenue of $470,000,000 to $450,000,000. About 4,000,000 estates pay the bulk of these taxes. This is the substance of a report by Charles M. Pepper, who has been investigating the subject for the Bureau of Manufactures, Department of Commerce and Labor, in connection with the tariff revision.

NICOTIANA TABACUMInteresting Historical Facts Concerning Government Statistics.

(From A. S. of E. Tobacco News.)

"The Cultivation of Tobacco in Kentucky and Tennessee" is the title of a leaflet recently issued by the Department of Agriculture, the object of which is to present the best methods of cultivation now in use, with detailed descriptions of the principal operations employed.

Preceding the technical discussion of these questions, the bulletin presents a sketch dealing with historical facts that may well interest the lovers as well as the raisers of the weed.

Thus, it is stated, for instance, that tobacco, belonging to the order of plants commonly known as the nightshade family, received its generic name, "Nicotiana," in honor of Jean Nicot, French ambassador to Portugal, in 1660.

When two years before this, specimens of tobacco had been brought from Mexico to Spain, Nicot secured some of the seeds and sent them to Paris. The species of Nicotiana grown in the Ohio Valley is Nicotiana tabacum.

The aborigines of America grew tobacco long before the advent of the white man. The French explorers Marquette and La Salle found it in cultivation and use by the Indians along the Mississippi and Ohio rivers and their tributaries as early as 1669 and 1673. In 1750 Captain Christopher Gist, an agent of the "Ohio Company," found tobacco being grown by Indians at Shawneetown, the present site of Postsmouth, O. During the same period tobacco was being grown by the Shawnees at the present site of Indian Fields, in Clark county, Ky.

In 1775 white pioneers from Virginia and North Carolina made a permanent settlement at Boonsboro, Ky., and immediately began to grow tobacco with their own crops. Soon after the price of tobacco increased materially and other tobacco farmers migrated to this territory.

As early as 1792, when Kentucky was admitted into the union, settlements were being established throughout the states bordering on the Ohio river and tobacco became a medium of exchange. After home consumption had been supplied, the surplus was shipped down the Mississippi to New Orleans for exportation. As the population increased, the home market grew, and, in a short time establishments were located at Lexington, and other points for the manufacture of plug and twist tobaccos for home consumption. The export business dwindled to nothing and was not revived until after the close of the civil war.

In 1866 George Webb, a farmer, living in Brown county, O., discovered the new tobacco plant which has now spread over what is known as the white burley district. He raised it from seeds furnished him by the Commissioner of Patents, who in those days supervised the distribution of seeds under Government auspices, and it differed materially from the red tobacco, therefore grown.

The type of tobacco, descended from those original plants, now supplies the market with chewing, cigarette, pipe and cigar tobacco, although the greater part of it is manufactured into chewing tobacco. The dark tobacco district produces a dark, heavy type, which is principally exported to European countries.

Kentucky and the bordering states now produce more than 375,000,000 pounds annually—one-sixth of the total production of the world and more than one-half of the production of the entire United States—of a quality of tobacco which is peculiarly confined on account of soil and climatic conditions to this area. A great part of the world will continue to look to this section for its supply.

WANTS TO KNOW WHO OWNS PRETTY FIRE AUTO.

Says That Winchester Should Have Better Streets Before New Auto.

To the Editor of The News:

I see a very pretty fire auto running around our streets and note that this auto is taking pleasure trips to our neighboring towns loaded with pie seekers. What I would ask is, "Whose auto is this? If the city's, then it seems that we are paying for a lot of pleasure that could be done by the purses of those that love auto pleasures and save our fine machine for its purpose, if it is ours?"

If the city expects to buy this machine, then by the time that it has run over to our neighboring towns several times and chased around our town with pleasure parties for thirty days it will by that time be a second-hand machine and worth just what any other second hand machine is.

And now, it strikes me that in our race to be very up-to-date that the "hounds are ahead of the hare." We have time to buy fire autos after we have some streets for them to run on. Do you not think that it would be the wise thing to build streets for them to run on. Do you not think that it would be the wise thing to build streets for the next two years with our money and then buy an auto? An auto will not and cannot do the service required of it with our streets in their present condition. Better the streets first and then buy the auto.

Yours for good streets,

GAMOTT.

SUGGESTIONS FOR BOOMING WINCHESTER

Commercial Club Buy Stereopticon and Put John Garner to Work.

Editor of The News:

Commercial Club wants to do advertising for its native

health, I have a tip for it, to wit: Let it buy a stereopticon of good power ready for business all except the slides. Then have slides made from photographs of everything of interest in the town and county and give exhibitions all around the State, charging only a dime, so that everybody can come. Have John Garner as the lecturer and command him to do his best as a boomer. Nearby towns could be worked first, and gradually the zone of influence be extended until it goes outside of Kentucky if necessary. The expense would be comparatively light in the beginning and if Garner got his talk going right, there would be such a demand for tickets that it would become a money maker before a great while. We can't expect everybody to come here and see the town, but, by Jiminy, we can take the town to everybody and let them see what it looks like. Then we get them started this way, sure.

F.M. HARRIS WRITES ON LIFE INSURANCE.

Discusses Question of Adequate Rates and Need of Protection.

The great British statesman, William E. Gladstone, declared that it was the duty of government to make it as easy as possible to do right, and as hard as possible to do wrong. "Fraternity" occupies a similar role in the realms of life insurance. Its basis is the establishment of a fraternalism which will bring healthy men and women together to form a great synthesis, uniting the best elements of the whole insurance fabric. Realizing this, it must of necessity gather force and volume as the years go by and ultimately become a power which shall decide its value of insurance to all who are eligible to carry it.

The fate of an order, like that of a nation is what its component parts make it, not what any outside influence may determine. If there is a divinity that is shaping our ends, then we are the Independent Order of Foresters, with a surplus fund of fourteen million dollars, the Woodmen of the World with nine million dollars and the Knights of the Lance with seven millions of "invested" funds.

F. M. HARRIS.

An institution of this kind exacts great demands from those who administer its destiny. The old Grecian idea was that a man who was incapable of taking up arms in behalf
